

EMPLOYER MATCHING Contributions

Many companies will match, double, or even triple employee contributions to the National Museum of Women in the Arts. Taking advantage of your employer's matching donation program is one of the easiest ways to increase the impact of your gifts in support of the museum's mission. Simply ask your human resources department for the proper matching form, fill in the requested information, and send the form to the museum along with your next contribution.

Below is a list of several corporations and foundations that have matched contributions to the museum in the past. If your company is not listed, please check with your employer for details on their matching policy.
